

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

CHAPTER ONE. THEORETICAL REFLECTIONS ON THE NATURE AND THE FORMS OF VIOLENCE

1. The “bludgeon” as an attribute of society
2. Are we clear on what we are talking about?
3. Social structures and social violence
4. Phenomenology and indicators of violence
5. Monistic, pluralistic or systematic explanation of violence
  - 5.1. Theories of violence
  - 5.2. Systematic model of violence
6. Legitimatization and de-legitimatization of violence
7. Types of relationships between concentrated and dispersed kind of violence
8. Truth can be discovered by means of comparison

Notes

CHAPTER TWO. NEW SOURCES AND FORMS OF VIOLENCE, ENGENDERED BY MODERN AGE AND CAPITALISM

1. Instrumental rationality and the changes in the forms and means of violence
2. Technological jumps and leaps in the scale of violence
3. The national state and the concentration of violence
4. The cruel birth of new social identities
5. Accelerated and catching-up modernization, instability and violence
6. Social polarization and social conflicts
7. Stratificational unbalances as a source of tensions and conflicts
8. Types of industrial revolutions and changes in the forms of violence
9. The great organizations' instrumental rationality, the distance from the object of violence, and “banality of evil”

Notes

CHAPTER THREE. THE FUNCTIONAL NEED OF VIOLENCE FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF CAPITALISM

1. The war as a midwife
2. Violence as an instrument for primitive accumulation of capital
  - 2.1. Expropriation of property
  - 2.2. Beggars, wanderers, robbers, free manpower
  - 2.3. Universal means for resolution of conflicts
3. Genocides against “the superfluous population”
4. Extra-economic compulsion and slave-holding capitalism
5. The revolutions that give birth to new societies
6. Structural violence and starvations
7. Forced deportations and detention camps

Notes

CHAPTER FOUR. ASYMMETRY OF THE FORMS AND CONCENTRATION OF VIOLENCE IN THE WORLD SYSTEM

1. Asymmetry among three groups of states in the world system

- 1.1. The core
- 1.2. The periphery
- 1.3. The semi-periphery
- 1.4. Asymmetries and hierarchies
- 1.5. The world system as a mechanism for dislocalization of violence

2. The capitalist core as a concentration of structural and subject violence in the world system

- 2.1. The core as a source of violence, imposing the structural inequality and the system rules
  - 2.1.1. Monopoly over violence and restriction of sovereignty
  - 2.1.2. Asymmetry and hegemony in the interpretation of violence
- 2.2. Hegemonic cycles and cycles of violence
  - 2.2.1. The cycle of upsurge and decline of Netherlands as a world center of violence
  - 2.2.2. The cycle of upsurge and decline of Great Britain as a world center of violence
  - 2.2.3. The cycle of violence related to the rise of the USA as a hegemonic power

3. Structural causes and manifestations of violence in the semi-periphery states

- 3.1. Political restrictions and authoritarianism
  - 3.1.1. Inorganicness, asynchronism, contradiction
  - 3.1.2. The state as an instrument for restriction of asymmetric dependence
  - 3.1.3. Accelerated development and restrained spontaneity
- 3.2. The state socialism as a semi-periphery type of development
- 3.3. When does democracy become possible and when does the inside violence become weak?
- 3.4. Modernization cycles and violence
  - 3.4.1. Three major group of reasons for cyclic recurrence
  - 3.4.2. The modernization cycles of Russia
  - 3.4.3. The modernization cycles of Turkey
  - 3.4.4. The modernization cycles of Bulgaria

4. The periphery between concentrated and dispersed, internally and externally provoked violence

- 4.1. In between dependence, chaos and violence
- 4.2. The role of the core for the fragmentation and violence in the periphery.

Notes

CHAPTER FIVE. GLOBAL CAPITALISM AND GLOBAL VIOLENCE

1. Globalization as a process of intensification of structural violence

- 1.1. Five mechanisms of growing global inequality and the violence resulting from it
  - 1.1.1. Liberalization and an asymmetric trade exchange
  - 1.1.2. Asynchronization and divergence of interests
  - 1.1.3. The outflow of financial resources from the periphery and semi-periphery to the core of the world system
  - 1.1.4. The brain drain and the growing informational, intellectual, educational inequality
- 1.2. The growth of technological potential and the globalization of violence

- 1.3. Dictatorship of the market over the state
2. The transition to globalized capitalism as everyday terror
  - 2.1. Economic violence and social genocide
  - 2.2. Ethnic purges and mass murders
  - 2.3. Criminalization of societies and the jump in deviant behavior
  - 2.4. Repression of children
  - 2.5. Violence caused by the shortage of resources necessary for individual development
  - 2.6. Dispersion and fragmentation of violence
  - 2.7. The demographic collapse
3. The virtual violence
4. Sixty Holocausts, five hundred Gulags and one Second World War per year
  - 4.1. The globalized social genocides
  - 4.2. The globalized inequality and global pandemic diseases
  - 4.3. The global starvation
5. The globalized “humanitarian” and “pre-emptive” wars

Notes

CHAPTER SIX. HEGEMONIC POSITION AND GLOBAL CONCENTRATION OF VIOLENCE

1. Economic hegemony and economic power
  - 1.1. The upsurge of American might and the expectations for its decline
  - 1.2. Tendencies of a new economic detachment
  - 1.3. The American dollar as an instrument of global power.
2. Scientific and technological hegemony
3. Global concentration of the ability for violence
4. “The new imperialism” against a dispersed and de-monopolized violence
  - 4.1. *The new world order*
  - 4.2. Hegemonic enervation of international conventions and institutions
  - 4.3. Will Europe be soon an alternative of the world hegemon?
  - 4.4. “The good hegemony”, “the new imperialism”, “the enlightened empire” as an ideology, legitimatizing the global concentration of violence
5. To what extent can the global monopoly over violence be successful?
  - 5.1. Strategic overstretching and material limitations of the hegemony
  - 5.2. Structural disequilibrium and probability of geopolitical transformations
  - 5.3. The power of a mono-polar hegemon cannot be successful enough in an increasingly regionalized and network-like world
  - 5.4. Legitimization of the monopoly of the hegemonic power over violence will be getting more difficult

Notes

CHAPTER SEVEN. DE-MONOPOLIZATION AND PRIVATIZATION OF VIOLENCE

1. Crisis of the institutions for legitimized monopoly on violence
  - 1.1. Globalization, information revolution, and de-nationalization of the state control over violence
  - 1.2. Hegemonic interests and fragmentation of the world
2. From a public monopoly towards a privatization of violence and security
  - 2.1. Upsurge and decline of the monopoly over violence

- 2.2. Proliferation of weapons amongst private individuals
- 2.3. Privatization of police activity
- 2.4. Privatization of the armies and progress of the mercenary system
- 2.5. Privatization of peace-keeping activities
- 2.6. The fragmentation of security increases the insecurity
3. The upsurge of pax mafiosa
  - 3.1. What is occurring within the world hegemon?
    - 3.1.1. The hidden Holocaust
    - 3.1.2. A totalitarian solution without a totalitarian state
  - 3.2. The world gets increasingly more criminal
  - 3.3. The transnational criminal network structures
4. The global criminalization of politics
5. The global religious violence
  - 5.1. The religious causes as a substitute for secular ideologies
  - 5.2. Islam and the “clash of civilizations”
    - 5.2.1. The religious violence as a mask for social divisions
    - 5.2.2. Demographic and religious preconditions for the clash
    - 5.2.3. Hegemonic politics and civilization clash

Notes

CHAPTER EIGHT. THE GLOBAL POSTMODERN VIOLENCE AND CHANGES IN THE NATURE OF THE WARS

1. The global postmodern violence
2. The global postmodern wars
  - 2.1. From mass and national armies towards professional and mercenary troops
  - 2.2. Information wars
  - 2.3. Netwars
  - 2.4. Wars from a distance with no loss of life
  - 2.5. Asymmetric threats and asymmetric wars
3. The rise of anti-state political violence
4. Factors for qualitative change of anti-state political violence
5. The role of ideological hegemony in defining and naming of the terrorism
6. Could the measures of strengthen control over the dispersed political violence be effective?
7. “Barbarians” are not only outside, but also inside the core of the world system
8. The unstable character of the world system and the probable success of plots and conspiracies

Notes

CONCLUSION
BIBLIOGRAPHY
CONTENTS